FURTHER EXTRACTS

From London Papers received at the Office of the True American, by the Britiſh Packet, arrived at N. York, from Falmouth.

LONDON, May 18.

The preſent inclemency and unſeaſonable weather is perhaps unparalleled for many years. On Friday and Saturday morning the ice 6 or 7 miles from town was half an inch thick, the cold continued with little or no intermiſſion till Sunday afternoon, when a warm gleam of ſunſhine broke out, this was ſucceeded by thunder, and that again by a ſhower of ſleet or more properly of ſnow. Yeſterday morning was froſty even beyond thoſe of Friday and Saturday, and the cold continues unuſually ſevere. The effect of ſuch weather upon valetudinarians is eaſier imagined than deſcribed, and will not improbably furniſh in thoſe not previouſly indiſpoſed ample work for the ſons of Galen. The only inſtances of ſuch late colds, and even thoſe laſted only a few hours were in the year 1710, when a ſhower of ſnow fell in ſome parts of the north of England, particularly Boroughbridge in Yorkſhire, and in the year 1780 when a hoar froſt took place on the 17th of June. Theſe phenomena laſted not long enough to do material harm, but our late colds muſt have done incredible damage to the fruit, ſince even the leaves of hardy trees are dropping off.

May 21.

Our readers will remember that ſome time ago we mentioned the diſcovery made by an American in France, of a Plunging Boat, which could be ſo conſtructed as to remain a good while under water, and that it could even be made uſeful as a collateral object of blowing up ſhips of war. We did not pay much attention to the thing at the time, but it ſeems that Lord Stanhope has aſcertained the poſſibility of reducing the invention to practice, and that the veſſel could be made to remain ſeven hours under water; & that 15 pounds of powder, faſtened on the keel of a 74, would blow her up. This certainly would render blockades of ports extremely dangerous.

May 23.

FIRE AT WOOLWICH WARREN.

On Thurſday morning, about 4 o'clock, the ſoldier on guard diſcovered a fire that had broke out at the depoſitory at Woolwich Warren. The alarm bells were rung, and the drums beat to arms, when every effort was immediately uſed to ſtop its progreſs. The greateſt precautions were taken to preſerve that ſteady and cool attention which is the ſource of every hope and excellence on ſuch a momentous occaſion. As ſoon as the drums had beat to arms, the gates of Warren were ſhut, to the excluſion of the townspeople, who in their officious zeal, might have produced that confuſion which was the wiſh of the military power to prevent. Towards five o'clock, the fire raged with uncommon fury threatening the deſtruction of all the adjoining buildings. When it ſpread nearer and nearer to the Laboratory, the conſequence of ſuch an exploſion was truly alarming, that at one time, to prevent a greater evil, it was in contemplation to batter it down with cannon. The wind, however, very fortunately confined the devaſtation to the Depoſitory; for, had it blown from another quarter, the moſt intelligent men are of opinion, that not only the Laboratory and the Warren, but nearly the whole town of Woolwich, would have been reduced to ruins. After two hours laudable exertion on the part of the ſoldiers, firemen, and ſome, inhabitants of the town, who were afterwards admitted, the fury of the flames began to abate, and the fire was gradually maſtered in ſuch a manner as to diſpel every alarm for its further progreſs. The firſt and chief care was to remove the bombs and mortars from the imminent danger in which they were ſituated. Beſides the fears for the Laboratory, in another building adjoining were about ſix thouſand gun-carriages, and vaſt quantities of ammunition, in ſtore-houſes and workſhops. With the exception of three mortars which made a terrible exploſion indeed, all the articles of a dangerous nature were removed. The damages according to the beſt accounts which could be collected were infinitely more than might have been expected from the time of the duration of the fire, the whole of the curioſities, from the confuſion natural to ſuch a ſcene, became the victims of the implacable flames. They conſiſted of arms of a rare kind, Tippo Saib's gun, India wall Pieces, a variety of cannon, rockets, &c. in ſhort, almoſt every article uſed in the military art, together with every ſpecimen of warlike weapons; and what was the moſt remarkable curioſity of all, the model of Gibraltar. Report eſtimates the loſs at upwards of 150,000l.

The injury done to the beautiful model of the Rock of Gibraltar is not ſo great as was at firſt repreſented, it having ſuſtained but a ſlight damage, which can be eaſily repaired, and the whole reſtored to its original ſtate.

May 31.

The Dutch Government is preparing 9000 troops to ſend to the Weſt-Indies.

The new expedition fitting out at Breſt to reinforce Le Clerc at St. Domingo, is preparing on the moſt extenſive ſcale. The number of troops will exceed 20,000.—The whole armament was expected to ſail by the 15th of June. Is the whole or any part of this force primarily or ultimately deſtined to Louiſiana.

June 1.

Prince William of Glouceſter is to ſtay a ſhort time at Copenhagen, on his way to Peterſburg. Apartments have been prepared for his Royal Highneſs at the Prince of Heſſels. It is premature to ſtate the object of his Royal Highneſs' journey, which depends wholly on his own inclination after he arrives at Peterſburgh.—There are two very beautiful young women, ſiſters of the preſent Emperor, unmarried, and with whom there will be a large dower.

June 4.

The acts of the government for an appeal to the people to appoint Bonaparte for life, was rather curiouſly juggled thro' in the council of ſtate. When Cambaceres oppoſed it, he ſaid thoſe who are for it ſhould hold up their hands. Six immediately did it, namely, Roederer, Portalis, Boureroy, Gen. Marmont, Bruix, & Regneud de St. Jean d'Angely, all the others appeared to be ſtruck dumb with amazement; they heſitated, and they ſaid it was unconſtitutional, and if the Senate chooſes they could be even accuſed for it. Cambaceres then ſaid, "that thoſe who are of the contrary opinion, ſhould hold up their hands." Thus was this illegal act carried, not by a majority, but by a minority!

M. Peuchet is believed to be the perſon chiefly conſulted by Bounaparte with reſpect to the commercial arrangement now upon the tapis between Great Britain and France.

July 5.

The ſcarcity of bread continues to be felt in France, and the expected arrival of flour from America is mentioned. The arrivals ſpoken of from England, and indeed any commerce in grain between this country and France, we underſtand, is entirely confined to that which, having been imported from foreign parts, may again be exported. When the comparative price in France, however, affords the ſtrongeſt temptation to export, it is poſſible that ſome Engliſh grain may be carried away under this deſcription.

A letter from Rotterdam, of the 2d of June; ſays, that the price of grain is exceſſively high in that country, owing to the vaſt ſupplies ſent to France.

The French funds ſeem to be rather on the decline. The Moniteur no longer calls the Tiers Conſolide by that name, but the Five per Cents. They are 55fr. 60 ct. the price which our Iriſh Five per Cents bore after the rebellion.

While the French Government is re-eſtabliſhing the ſlave trade, the Britiſh is conſidering of impoſing additional reſtrictions upon it.

PARIS, May 24.

"A writing has been circulated at the Palace Royal, in which a general, whoſe name is but little known, of the Gauls. Only two members of the Tribunate Carnot and Duches have refuſed their ſignature. The firſt conſul is ſaid not be much ſatisfied with the ſpeech in which Chabot announced the acquieſcence of the Tribunate, and congratulated him upon it. In this ſpheech the arator, retraced all the great exploits of Bonaparte, and concluded with this praiſe. It is only Bonaparte, of whom it can be ſaid, he has not lived too long for his glory.' It appeared to the firſt conſul a kind of leſſon to his future conduct. Turning to thoſe who accompanied him, he ſaid, truly an excellent ſermon."

"A Report is circulated in Paris of a conſpiracy, the object of which it is ſaid was the aſſination of Bonaparte at the laſt parade. A ſoldier was to have delivered him a petition at the moment when the light cavalry were preforming a certain evolution which was to be the ſignal for one of the conſpirators fiting a piſtol at the Firſt Conſul. It is pretended that Bonaparte was informed of the deſign; that he took the petition, and at the ſame time made a motion with his hands to the light cavalry not to ſtir. The ſignal having thus failed, the aſſaſſin had no opportunity of executing his intention. It is added that Fournier was charged to fire the piſtol; but that the accomplices fearing his indiſcretion, would not allow him to come to Paris till juſt the moment when the aſſaſſination was to have taken place. All their precautions could not however prevent his arrival twenty-four hours before the time agreed upon, and it was within ſuch period that hurried away by an emotion of paſſion againſt Bonaparte, he betrayed himſelf and ſuffered ſome words to eſcape him, which were reported to the firſt conſul, and thus the plot of the conſpirators was defeated. It is certain that ſeveral generals and officers have endeavored to excite the ſoldiers to revolt. It is ſaid that within theſe few days a great number of the officers of the 19th regiments of Dragoons, who were ſent from Paris, have returned there without orders. It appears that the Friſt Conſul meditates the augmentation of his guard? and are aſſured that it will be compoſed of the 6th regiment of Dragoons commanded by his brother, Lucien Bonoparte; and the 9th regiment, commanded by Sebaſtiani, his relation, and a Corſican as well as himſelf.

"The inſtitution of the Legion of honor has not produced, at leaſt for the preſent, the effect the government expected from it. It is not conceived to be very honorable, and certainly it will not be of much utility.

"A perſon named M. de la Riviere, was arreſted ſome months ſince upon a charge of having concerted with Georges, to deliver the port of Breſt to the Engliſh. A naval court martial was ſummoned to try him and he was acquitted; but Bonaparte, irritated at the ſentence, has ſent orders to Breſt to have him confined in priſon. Seven members of the court martial have alſo been arreſted and conducted to Paris. They have been ſome time detained at the Temple in cloſe confinement at Chouans."

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 9.

LATEST FROM LONDON.

By the ſhip Ann, Coit, from Hull, we have received London papers eigteen days later than by any former arrival.—There being nothing very important in them, we ſhall give their contents in a ſummary way.

COMMERCIAL.

A merchant in this city having received a Liverpool Price Current to the 12th of June, via Portland, has favored us with a loan of it. It appears that brown ſugar was 27s to 30, good 38, fine 40, white 64; coffee, ordinary 74s, middling 92, good 102, fine 108; Cotton, Bourbon, 2s 9d to 3s, Surrinam 2s2, New Orleans 1s1, Georgia 1s1½, Sea Iſland 2s, fine 2s7. [The demand for Sea Iſland cotton is brisk and on the riſe.] Mahogany, Cuba 1s6, Hiſpaniola 2s, Honduras 1s8, briſk and but little in market. Hides in demand. Rum very dull. Flour, ſuperfine 38s to 40s per bbl. Rye flour 20. Rice 34 to 35s. Oak bark 30s. Turpentine 1s5. Pitch 10s. Roſin 12s. Tar 18s. Carolina Indigo 5s6. White Oak Staves 8l. Fine James river Tobacco in demand. Grain rather on the decline. Prime ſtaves much wanted.

Stocks, at London, 3 per cent Conſols 73½, 4 per cent. 89, Omnium ½ diſcount, New 5 per cents 104 1-8.

Flour, average price from the 1ſt of June 56s 10d. but it was rather on the decline.

In Germany there was a proſpect of an abundant harveſt, and corn began to fall in price. Poliſh wheat ſold at Dantzic, May 21, for 380 to 450, and red 490 to 540, and rye 330 to 380 florins. Peas are alſo lower; but theſe two laſt articles were expected to riſe. France being in want, and the price in Holland having riſen. Great quantities have been bought for France.

The Batavian Council of State have ordered the confiſcation of all Eaſt India Goods imported into Holland by perſons not authoriſed by the law which eſtabliſhes the right of the Dutch Eaſt India Company.

The Dutch have alſo renewed the law prohibiting the importation of foreign Tea, and have reſcinded all the prohibitions on Engliſh goods.

The Batavian republic have permitted the importation of Engliſh goods into their ports, on their paying the ſame duty as before the war.

The Gazette contains an order of Council, for continuing the permiſſion for the importation of proviſions duty free, into Great Britain, till the 1ſt of June, 1802.

It is mentioned on good authority, that the French have prohibited the importation and exportation of Tobacco, to and from Antwerp, under a penalty of ſeizure.

A London paper of the 17th ſays—"The official letters from Gen. Le Clerc at St. Domingo, contain ſome expreſſions, relative to the Americans, much harſher than we could expect to ſee publiſhed in France. When the complaints of Americans for the ſeizures of their cargoes are mentioned, it is added, that they ſhould not "ſpeak of the paſt;" and it is then directly ſtated, that "the agents of the American government were about Touſſaint, and did not ſuggeſt to him good intentions."

POLITICAL.

At the cloſe of the liſts of Paris, on the queſtion whether Bonaparte ſhould be elected conſul for life, no more than 18,000 names were inſerted, and amongſt them, three citizens had the courage to write a legible non—one very cautious hero, wrote between two columns, "In good truth, I do not know any thing about it, yes and no."

The reports of the conſpiracy againſt Bonaparte, of the death of Berthier, and of the diſaffectiou and enmity among the French generals, are officially contradicted.

Monſieur Conynebert Monthret, deputed by the Firſt conſul to negociate a commercial treaty with England, has had his firſt interview with Lord Hawkeſbury, the reſult of which, it was ſaid, had proved highly ſatisfactory.

The Moniteur announces the appointment of general Anderſon ambaſſador to England, and M. Otto, Miniſter to the United States.

A rumour prevailed, that Mr. Pitt and Mr. Dundas would ſoon be transferred to the Upper Houſe. The matrimonial plan of the former, we aſſigned as the reaſon of his approaching dignity.

The Batavian Legiſlature have already reſolved upon a deviation from the new Conſtitution, as far as it reſpects the gradual change of repreſentatives.

A regiſter was to be opened at Hamburgh for the reception of votes for Bonaparte as Conſul for life.

The Batavian Legiſlative Body have rejected a propoſition of the council of State, allowing a general amneſty to thoſe who had quitted the territories of the republic in conſequence of the revolution of 1795.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Bonaparte, accompanied by general Andreoſſi, and officers of the conſular guard, was preparing a viſit to the Hague, and after he had a conference with the notables of Belgium, &c. and viſited Antwerp, was to continue his journey by Leige, Aix-la-Chapelle, and Cologne, to Mentz.

General Hutchinſon had arrived at Dover from France; and a reſolution paſſed the Commons, granting an annuity to his lordſhip, of 2,000l.

The Duke of Richmond was dangerouſly ill at his houſe in Privy gardens.

The 49th regiment of foot for Halifax; and the 49th for Quebec, failed from the Downs June 16.

The wife of Alexander Ratcliff, in Saddleworth, was delivered of three fine boys, who are baptized by the names of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob. It is worthy of remark, that the mother is a twin, and has been delivered of twins before.

An earthquake, which was felt in ſeveral parts of Italy, ſwallowed up one whole village, ſo that not one inhabitant, nor any veſtige of it remains.

A letter from Conſtantinople of May 10, ſtates the plague raged with great violence; that the Engliſh troops had been obliged to withdraw from Alexandria and Roſetta. The plague has likewiſe made its appearance at Conſtantinople and at Smyrna. Mr. Stratton, the Engliſh ambaſſador, has invited the Porte to accede to the Treaty of Amiens and this acceſſion is expected ſoon to take place. New diſturbances have broken out in Romalia.

At the city of Lorca, in Spain, a reſervoir, of ſeveral leagues in length, ſuddenly burſt, and inundated a ſpace of 20 leagues, as alſo a part of the city, 500 houſes were deſtroyed, and 1000 lives loſt.

Arrived on Saturday, the ſwift ſhip Ann, Lee, in 40 days from Hull, and 35 from land's end. By the ſloop Heury arrived this morning from Bermuda, we have received the Bemuda Gazette to the 17th ult. from which we ſelect the following articles.

BERMUDA, July 17.

Wedneſday ſailed his Majeſty's frigate Tamer, capt. Weſtern, for England.—Capt. Weſtern this war has taken about 40 ſhips and veſſels of war, belonging to the French and Spaniards, beſides a number of valuable merchantmen, and had only two appeal caſes—honeſt Danes, which he found out to the Dutch.

By Capt. Weſtern we have certain accounts that Guadaloupe is reſtored to tranquility, after many hundreds of the black rebels being hanged, guillotined and ſhot. Several hundreds of the others were put on board the ſhips of war in irons, and ſent to France, from whence they are to be ſhipped to the Mauritius and the Iſle of France.

At Dominique the trials were continuing on the mutineers of the 8th W. India regiment and many hanged, thoſe leaſt faulty are to be ſent to Halifax, and from thence to the Eaſt Indies.

The other eleven black Weſt India regiments are to be ſent to the Eaſt Indies in a ſhort time, where no doubt they will be more uſeful than they are at preſent.

Tobago is already given up to the French troops, and general Lacroſſe, (who commanded Guadaloupe) has the government of it. St. Lucia is alſo given up, and Gen. Lepanſe has that Government.

Martinique is to be given up on the 25th of this month the poor loyaliſts are flying from hence to all the Engliſh Iſlands for protection,

Alexandria Advertiſer.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12.

PROVERBS.

SOLOMON, who ſeverely cenſures flattery, and ſays, that a flattering mouth worketh ruin, as ſtrongly recommends reproof, and declares that open rebuke is better than ſecret love—the rebuking of a brother or a neighbor freely for his faults, is better than loving him without the like expreſſions of kindneſs.

The Jewiſh law enjoined, that whoever met an Ox or an Aſs going aſtray ſhould conduct him home to the owner, and will not chriſtian charity much more prompt us to reclaim a man, a fellow creature from the error of his ways, and ſave him from being ſwallowed up in the vortex of ambition; for Solomon ſays, that he that ſayeth to the wicked "thou art righteous," him ſhall the people curſe; nations ſhall abhor him: But to them that rebuke him ſhall be delight.

As reproof is in itſelf a diſagreeable thing to moſt perſons, ſo it muſt be allowed to be a very difficult and nice province to reprove judiciouſly; but for our encouragement, let us remember, that we cannot perform any work more charitable to men or acceptable to God. In reproving men you muſt adapt it to their diſpoſitions, as on many, friendly advice will have no effect; but by whatever method you arrive at the deſirable point, it is meritorious and praiſe-worthy, inaſmuch as you thereby contribute to the comfort of ſociety.

With ſome characters no hints or oblique advances have the deſired effect, therefore it is neceſſary by a ſpirited repreſentation to point out the impropriety of their conduct, and then allow them time to reflect, and it is very probable (unleſs they are callous or determined to attempt to arrive at the ſummit of their ambitious wiſhes) it will have the deſired effect; but if they be ſo hardened as not to liſten to ſalutary admonitions, then they deſerve that execration which awaits them, and every virtuous man ſhould ſhun them as he would a ſerpent.
